FOUR GOOD GAMES OF BALL TOMORROW

Games Will Be Stayed at Traction Park, Idamay, Downs and Annabelle.

Four good baseball games are scheduled in Marion county tomorrow as follows:

Consolidation vs. Star City at Traction Park. Time 3:30 p. m.
Lumberport vs. Idamay at Idamay. Time 3:00 p. m.
Baxter vs. Downs at Downs. Time 3:30 p. m.
Grant Town vs. Annabelle at Annabelle. Time 3:00 p. m.

Star City will come to Traction park for the second time this season to play the Consolidation team and it is needless to say that they will be prepared to give the home team the game of their life.

Lumberport, one of Harrison county's best diamond teams, will come to Idamay with every expectation of winning, but with Idamay using her best line-up this is easier said than done.

Baxter and Downs will have a big battle when the two teams clash tomorrow at Baxter. Baxter has been going like a "house afire" and is determined to keep going—Downs, under new management will put up a stiff defense, to say the least.

While all of the above games are being played, Grant Town and Annabelle will be playing at Annabelle. The teams are about evenly matched and one of the best games of the season is anticipated.

MARY AND HER W. S. S.
Mary had a little book—
It grew and grew and grew;
And when 'twas full she got a bond—

It followed her to school one day,

It ceased the other kids to pay,
Which shows that they weren't fools.

THE DEAN.

By PAUL PURMAN.

An old-time fan who had sort of dropped his baseball for several years was glancing over a box score the other day and ran across the name Wallace with the St. Louis Cardinals.

"Funny," he said, "there used to be a Wallace with the Cards back in the nineties—Doboy Wallace—and a mighty sweet infielder."

It was the same Wallace, the dean of baseball players, 44 years old, 25 years in major league baseball, a survival of the days of Pat Tebeau, of Ed Deleahanty, of Cy Young and the rest of them.

Old Bob breaks into the game now and then. His legs aren't what they were once and he has lost a part of his old time batting eye, but he's a mighty valuable asset to the Cards just the same.

nerves. Why should things so good looking as that be allowed to absorb peoples' sympathy and complimentary words? He'd like a nice thing said about him once in awhile! So out of pure malice he pecked at the moth and then flew up a short distance, watching as he went. Back again he came, pecking harder this time. When he had crippled the moth he spread both wings out fan-like, and braced himself to lift something heavy and was surprised to find the moth weighed nothing at all. He flew away with the creature, her delicate wings brushing against his face. At some considerable distance he dropped her hard, but she sailed out on a faint breeze, careening like an injured albatross, falling to the ground, wounded. Not satisfied, he came after her and pecked at her body again until it must have been full of hurt places. His very air about the whole thing said as plain as day: "I certainly won't allow anything better looking than I am to monopolize this neighborhood!"

Fairmont fortune tellers are a failure and one paper that I know of will allow no more ads for such business to be placed therein! The next sensible thing to do is to let your curiosity in that line remain unsatisfied and keep your money in your pocket. Twice now we have allowed men to enter our city and take up an unquestioned abode among us with the result that everybody coming in contact with them has been "stung," a fine word, expressing just what we mean. What an Englishman would do with that word, I don't know, but it's a peach having nothing whatever to do with fruit! If we had those two men here now, we wouldn't do a thing to them, which is another sentence which was taken literally once by an Englishman and which didn't work out at all according to the sense.

It seems strange that folks forget the grain of salt they use so readily with other happenings; when it comes to believing some occult prediction about themselves. A lady wrote a letter to one of the professors while he was here asking that he tell her why she did not hear from a certain friend of hers and also asking what had become of another friend she had not heard from for years. The answers came as follows: "I feel very strongly that your first friend has been influenced by misunderstanding not to write. He may do so yet but if he does not, it is merely circumstances which have prevented." Now wasn't that an illuminating answer? Couldn't you or I have gone into the fortune telling business and answered the same thing? As answer to the second question he said he would have to have some article belonging to the departed person before the thought waves would work properly. Now, what do you know about that?

Another man that I know stopped me on the street one day and said she already paid this man quite a little money and was going back for more dope. She was having a very good time and I did not disillusionize her. We're so awfully foolish here on this earth that when a man burns incense to dull our wits and then tells us we are destined for wonderful things—that we are about to meet unheard of success or about to go on a long, interesting journey, we sit thrilled and spell-bound, believing every word. It works on the same principle as reading fairy tales. Didn't we sit hours at a time wrapped up in them, entirely beyond ordinary happenings? We simply weren't in this world at all. And we were never more satisfied. But now that we have been stung twice it might not be a bad idea to confine our fortune telling to home talent and put our money to better use.

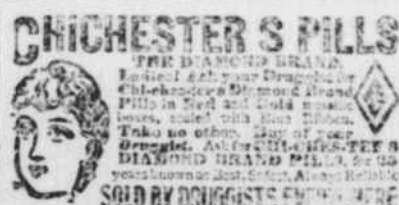

Mrs. Joseph Rosier presided at the regional conference of the Home Service section of the Red Cross at Fairmont Wednesday and Thursday and in introducing some of the women speakers referred to the work being done in Marion county by women's clubs and organizations. She dwelt at some length on the patriotic service of the women folks in war times and ridiculed the idea which prevailed years ago that women's clubs did nothing but listen to addresses by "long-haired college professors." When she made this remark it was noticed that Dr. E. H. Vickers, of the West Virginia University, "winced," which some of his friends declared to be college camouflage, for Dr. Vickers' hair is—well most of it is absent.

The Submarine is Centuries Old

CONTRARY to common belief, seacraft traveled under water at least 300 years, and probably 3000, before John Holland's submarine.

James I., in 1621, took a submarine trip several miles long, in a submarine invented by Cornelius Van Drebbel. Van Drebbel's craft was a true navigating submersible, made water-tight by greased leather, and propelled by twelve oarsmen, who rowed with oars fitted through water-tight holes in the hull.

Though the submarine in its development has appeared in a hundred fantastic forms, the automobile tire has matched it in freakish inventions.

Goodrich's clear-sighted direction was needed to hold it to principles of usefulness, and produce—

GOODRICH SERVICE VALUE TIRES

Goodrich loyalty to practical service was logical, for Goodrich values tires solely by SERVICE VALUE.

Goodrich judges tires solely by what they do for you on your car and on the road in easy riding, economy, dependability and durability.

Therefore, Goodrich, in the twenty-two years it has directed the destinies of automobile tires, has worked and watched to put SERVICE VALUE into its tires, SILVERTOWN CORDS or BLACK SAFETY TREADS, and to keep it there.

SERVICE VALUE in tires is in harmony with the thrifty spirit of the times. Be thrifty by demanding Goodrich Service Value Tires.
